URSINUS TEAM TO PLAY
EASTERN PENNA. LEAGUE
LEADERS MONDAY EVENING

Game Against Professionals Will be Played for the Benefit of
U. Athletic Club

FAST GAME EXPECTED

Tonight Ursinus students, and other followers of the Bears, will be treated to a "different" kind of basketball, when the Conshohocken Professional team will meet the Ursinus Varsity at Collegeville.

The Conshohocken team is confident of the superiority of the professional over the amateur brand of basketball. On the other hand Captains Bigley and Hoagey predict an Ursinus victory. The Conshohocken team is leading the Eastern Pennsylvania Basketball league and appear as sure pennant winners. This team has the distinction of claiming some of the best basketball players from high school, college and professional ranks, and is unique in the fact that all of the players are ex-captains of their respective school teams. Hartenstine captained Wenonah Military Academy for two years and is one of the fastest men in the league. Weand, Hartenstine's running mate at forward, is a former Norristown High star. C. Irwin, formerly of Conshohocken High, plays center and promises to give "Pep" Young, Ursinus' fast center, plenty of trouble. Rigg and Callahan, of Bucknell and Villa Nova, play the guard positions; their being ex-captains of these colleges speaks for their ability. With such prospects a fast, close game can be expected.

The game is to be played as a benefit project for the Athletic Club. This alone should bring out the entire student body, but also the boys need everyone to help turn back the fast professional team. The game is to be played at eight o'clock.

1928 RUBY GIVES PROMISE AS BEST ANNUAL PUBLISHED

Each week is bringing closer the day in March when the thirty-second volume of the Ruby, the Senior class book and college, annual will make its appearance on the campus.

This volume while dealing primarily with the graduating class, contains a most accurate synopsis of all the college activities, and student life. Within its pages are reflected a composite still of Ursinus life, embodying the best in the pictorial art. From it, a new note will be struck that is in keeping with the New Ursinus, while at the same time offering a source from which memories will always spring. From the unique exlibris design to the beautiful end piece, it will stand as a true memorial to all that the name Ursinus implies.

The editorial and business staff have spared no pains to make it the best Ruby. They have realized that one snap is better than ten thousand words. Would you see your favorite campus hero; or heroine, for that matter? You will in the Ruby. Have you often wished to have a picture of the newly organized band? It will be in the Ruby.

Are you interested in the theatre and dramatic art? If so, the opening pages, which trace the history of this art will be especially in their two colors, interesting to you.

As to the feature section, nothing may be said except that it is very, very different.

The rankings are:

1. Wesley Stanger ..... Penn
2. Gabriel Lavine ..... Penn
3. Bertram Claster, Harrisburg A.
4. Elliot Loughlin, Lansdowne H.
5. Thomas Nicey ....Swarthmore
6. Paul Lefever ..... Ursinus
7. William Condon, Penn Charter
8. Joseph Case, Lansdowne High
9. Lester Bosler, ..... Penn
10. Wm. Haseltine, Lansdowne H.

HIGH SCHOOL MONDAY

Large Score Rolled Up Against Collegeville in Opening
Basketball Game

McGARVEY HIGH SCORER

High scoring by "Sally" McGarvey featured an otherwise uneventful basketball game on January 16 when the Ursinus team overwhelmed the Collegeville High School varsity, 56-12.

"Sally" caged field goals without apparent effort and twenty-one times her shots ripped through the cords for two pointers. "Sally" Hoffer displayed her prowess as an able partner by successfully tossing the sphere through the basket to tally twelve points for the "U" team.

The pass work of the 'Sinus players in the center zone enabled the college team to maintain possession of the ball for a greater part of the game and lessen the opportunity of their opponents to score. However, the high school forwards displayed remarkable skill in passing when they did get possession of the ball.

After the first few minutes of play the High School sextette was completely outclassed and was held in check even after an entire team of substitutes took the floor for Ursinus.

MID-YEAR DANCE SATURDAY

A break in the examination tenses will be formed by the Mid-Year Dance which will be held in the field cage on Saturday, January 28. The committee has been appointed by the Student Councils and consists of the following: Ruth Moyer, '28, chairman; Theodore La Clair, '28; Abbie Carter, '29; Sally McGarvey, '29; Merritt Jeffers, '29, and James Donaldson, '30.

This dance affords a pleasant relief to the terrorizing exams.

DR. JORDAN ENTERTAINS TEAM

After the Haverford game, the basketball team was entertained by Dr. Jordan at his home, which is near the scene of the contest. Sandwiches and hot chocolate were served to an appreciative group, and an informal social time was held. Dr. Jordan's kindness on this occasion, as well as in the past, is greatly appreciated.

DEFEATS SCHUYLKILL NEG.
HERE TUESDAY EVENING

Question of Direct Primary Forms
Subject of Interesting Debates by Both Ursinus Teams

NEGATIVE LOSES, 2-1

The Ursinus girls' Affirmative debating team made its first home appearance this season last Tuesday evening when the girls' Negative team of Schuylkill was defeated by the local lassies in Bomberger Hall, by a 2-1 decision.

Dr. J. L. Barnard very ably presided and the judges were: Rev. Paul Witman, of Douglassville; Prof. D. H. H. Lengel, of Pottstown, and Rev. G. R. Smith, of Eagleville.

The Schuylkill team, including Anna Benninger, '29, Mary Buch, '29, and Grace Fridinger, '29 with Grace Rosenberger '29 as alternate, defended the negative side of the Conference question on the direct primary by maintaining that the present system is sufficiently democratic to accord with our principles of government, has specific advantages over any other system, and has been sufficiently successful to warrant continuance.

DR. RALPH JOHNSON DELIVERS LECTURE TO BIOLOGY CLUB

Dr. Ralph Johnson, '97, delivered a stereopticon lecture upon The Present Problem of Eugenics and Its Influence upon the Race. Dr. Johnson is excellently qualified to present this subject due to his many years of active interest, close study and experimentation with the problem. The presentation of the lantern slides correlated the lecture in such a manner as to render the topic doubly interesting. Dr. Johnson pointed out the basic laws of Heredity and Eugenics especially in regard to feeble-mindedness, and malformations. His lecture brought to mind the work of Gregor Mendel, Hugo De Vries, and other masters in the fields of Heredity. The program was highly entertaining and instructive to anyone at all interested in the problem.

The meeting of the Biology Club was held in Schaff Hall on Tuesday evening. Probably the largest group of students ever assembled at Ursinus to listen to the discussion of a scientific subject heard the lecture. The Club will have its next meeting on the first Tuesday after Mid-Year's, February 7.

ENGLISH CLUB DISCUSSES MODERN ESSAYS ON THURS.

Modern essays formed the topic of the English Club meeting held at Shreiner on Thursday evening. Miss Rothenberger, '28, read an interesting paper on different types of essays, showing the influences that essays have been in the past, and discussing the different kinds of these that people have written and still write.

Miss Solt, '28, presented the next paper, "Montaigne, the Founder of the Essay." This contained much interesting information about this man whose unusual and unique works are the first of what we call essays.

In his talk on the subject, Dr. Smith commented on the fact that a great many people pass by the essay as a waste of time, and read fiction instead. He then discussed the life of Thomas Hardy, the last of the great nineteenth century writers, whose death occurred a short time ago. The next meeting of the club will be held to consider the American and English short story.

MEMBERS OF U. FACULTY PRESENT AT CONFERENCES

President Omwake, Vice President Isenberg and Professors Yost, Barnard, Tyson and Witmer attended the meeting of the Pennsylvania State Educational Association at Lancaster during the Christmas recess. At the same time Professor Bretz attended the meeting of the Modern Language Association of America in Louisville, Kentucky.

Ursinus was also represented at the convention of the American Historical Association which was held at Washington, D. C., in the last part of December, by Miss Edith A. Farnham who reports the conference to have been very interesting and inspiring.

PLANS BEING MADE FOR ATHLETIC ASSOC. BAZAAR

Minstrel Show, Sketches, Bazaar, and Dance Will be Features of March 2nd and 3rd

SCHELL IN CHARGE

The annual bazaar of the Ursinus Athletic Association will be held this year on Friday and Saturday, March 2 and 3. The committee for the affair, which is headed by Ray Schell, '28, is announcing the preliminary plans for what is expected to be the biggest and most colorful of these events yet held.

On Friday evening each literary society will present a sketch appropriate to the occasion and the evening will be completed with a minstrel show under the direction of Messrs. Fox and Swanger '29. An interesting entertainment is guaranteed to all who attend.

The bazaar itself, which will be held Saturday afternoon needs no explanation to those who are familiar with similar events of the past. At this time, refreshments of all kinds will be sold, and special booths will contain interesting features.

The climax will be reached Saturday evening when a dance will be held in the field cage. Plans are already being arranged to make this one of the best dances of the year. The committee in charge consists of Arthur Faust, '28, as chairman, with Grace Kauffman, '27, Ruth Moyer, '28, Mary Cobb, '29, Merritt Jeffers, '29, and Lane Carl, '29, as members.

Further particulars will appear in this paper, and all alumni and friends of the college should arrange to be on the campus for this week end.

The annual athletic bazaar is becoming one of the leading social events on the campus. A greater bazaar than ever is planned for the present year.

BROTHERHOOD OF ST. PAUL

The regular monthly meeting of the Brotherhood of St. Paul was held in the philosophy room last Thursday night. After a short period of devotion led by Elam Weist, the business of the evening was taken up. A key committee consisting of Lytle, Koons, and Wiest was appointed to look into the matter of purchasing keys of membership for the Brotherhood. Some plans were also made concerning the annual Brotherhood banquet, after which newly proposed members were accepted into active membership. Those welcomed into membership of the Brotherhood were Alexander, Smith, Buckley, Sando and Maurer.

The program of the evening consisted of a paper given by Mr. Schmoyer on "St. Chrysostom," followed by a paper by Mr. String on "Mary, the Mother of God." The papers brought forth much comment and a lively discussion followed, after which the meeting was adjourned.

BEARS BEAT HAVERFORD
BUT LOSE TO TEMPLE
IN HARD-FOUGHT GAMES

Main Line Team Falls Victim to High Powered Scoring Attack of Fighting Grizzlies

SUBS DISPLAY PROWESS

Stung by successive defeats at the hands of Bucknell and Temple the Ursinus Grizzlies came back to administer a 52-34 trouncing to the Haverford passers on the latter's court last Saturday evening.

Coach Kichline started the game with the players who must form the nucleus of next year's team. These "shock troops" of Young and Weidensaal at forward, Schink at center and Newcomer and Strine at guards played fifteen minutes of the first half and left the senior members of the squad a respectable lead when they quit the game. At halftime the score was 20-10 in favor of the Bears.

Busy Second Half

The second half was a high-powered scoring bee with Coach Kichline's men outdistancing and outplaying their Main Line rivals. Haverford started off with somewhat of a rally which was quickly broken up by the Grizzly guards while Lloyd Hoagey showered the Bears' basket with a volley of field goals to keep Ursinus well in front.

Hoagey Stars

Lloyd tallied seven double deckers and four foul shots in that hectic second half to win for himself the scoring honors of the evening. Hoagey, like Thomas for Haverford, scored all his points in the second half. This victory again brought the Bears back to a 50-50 standing in the six games played to date.

Time of halves—20 minutes. Referee—Lewis.

Playing a great game but not quite great enough to defeat the crack Temple University quintet the Bears lost a fast played game to the Philadelphians last Thursday evening in Conwell Hall, 48-37.

Both teams got away to a brisk start and a stiff pace was maintained throughout the entire first half, and although a great deal of scoring was done by both teams in the first twenty minutes of play the game was exceptionally fast.

Bears Trail 28-20

At halftime the score stood 28-20 in favor of Temple. Ursinus made a valiant attempt to close this gap in the second half but this was impossible and the game ended with the score 48-37 in favor of the Philadelphians.

Bigley High Scorer

Both teams scored a high number of points, Hoagey and Bigley garnering twenty-five for the Grizzlies while

Editorial Comment

WHAT IS GOING ON?

One of the favorite sports among magazine writers recently seems to be finding fault with the colleges, their student bodies, their faculties, their curricula, their emphasis or lack of emphasis on outside activities, or their aims. Hardly a magazine of thoughtful type can be found that does not contain at least one article on this apparently ever-interesting subject, and many of the contentions found in them are only too true. The unfortunate fact is that most of us do not read them, unless forced into it, and when we do, most of us do not know what is going on.

College students are supposed to be intelligent and well-informed, and yet few of us know what is happening politically in this country or in regard to our relations with other countries. When we read the papers, our perusal does not generally pass the sport page, or the murders. Yet, at the present time there are many vital problems facing the world, and especially the youth of the world, and we who ought to be the leaders are ignorant of these events and their causes and results.

If world peace is ever to be achieved it must be because of the united action of the youth. This movement for peace has already begun and young people in many lands are taking an active part in it. But how can we share in this effort unless we understand conditions in different countries and can be in sympathy with the feelings of others by knowing what they are doing? Lack of knowledge seems less characteristic of most foreign students, especially those studying in this country, than of Americans. The native students at the Eaglesmere Conference last June were far behind those from abroad in knowing what was going on in the world and relating it to the past and to other present events.

These visitors were also able to discuss more intelligently and unprejudicedly political conditions in our own country than were those to whom these affairs should be intensely important. Some of us will vote for the first time next fall and still have no idea of the actual qualities of the various candidates beyond a generally erroneous impression of each.

The strangest part of our ignorance is that we feel these topics are dull, and yet, when we learn enough about any one of them because we must, we find that they are really interesting and absorbing. They concern us and other people just as alive as we are. If a college education does nothing else, it should give us an interest in present times, because through it we should be able to connect the present with the past and interpret it in such a light. Each event should associate itself with others. But we are inclined to blindly accept as our own the opinion of some other person, or, at most, to form our judgments from a hasty glance at headlines in an unreliable or prejudiced paper.

At first glance, the abolition of the direct primary seems as dry as it is possible for a subject to be, and yet those who are debating the question this season can testify that it can be exciting as soon as one has studied it sufficiently. This topic also shows us another fallacy in most of our opinions. There are many who say that there is no question about it, that those who argue for its abolition can find no proof for their arguments nor any substitute for this system. But the winning of the debate last Tuesday evening by the girls' team which has this side of the question shows that there are decidedly two sides to everything and that quite likely the one most generally believed is not right.

As an example of students who are interested in world affairs, we find a group from Earlham College in Indiana who are working thru their college paper and in other ways to promote world peace. Such definite action is valuable, but even though we do not have any movement of that nature, we can take our part in disproving a statement made in one of the articles mentioned at the beginning of this editorial, that colleges are turning out "a low-grade product like the Ford cars, with just about as much thinking capacity." M. T. S., '28.

This editorial is written as a plea for higher standards of scholarship among the teachers in the average American college and the conservation of those values that make a well rounded scholar. The evils of the blind worship of quantity and not quality are in evidence in practically every American college today. Instead of attempting to save the priceless heritage of past knowledge and culture by placing them in the hands of learned, refined teachers who have an intelligent and liberal insight into the humane significance of their own fields and therefore understand its relation to other fields they are too often placed in the hands of teachers whose principal qualification for this most important field of endeavor, to train the minds of the youth, is their lack of any virility of mind and of the dynamic personality which is so necessary for the propagation of learning. The faculty should not be a comfortable roost for mediocrities. The shallowness, conceit, and superficiality of the professor whose sole object is to take his teaching as a matter of lecture, routine recitation, quiz, and examination exactly as pursued in the grade schools, bodes little good, for the future of the American college which is admittedly the chief stronghold of the finest and best elements that the race possesses. Even the specialist has little place in a college of liberal arts, when he is not in sympathy with the broader fields of mental cultivation, and thus unfit to guide the minds of undergraduate students.

The hope is then that a better faculty and a better student body will arise to take the place of the college of today. An institution where false pride, without self-sufficiency, and ignorant prejudice will give place to a corps of sympathetic, trained, sound, experienced scholars who will guide the student of tomorrow among the pleasant paths of learning ever free. C. H. E., '28.

THE VOICE OF DUSK

The Lawndale Press publishes the following poem by Herbert Richard Howells, '23, head of the music department of the Cheltenham High School, with the comment that it was written while treading the beautiful campus of Ursinus College under the spell of a gorgeous, autumnal sunset. The thought and structure came to the author without labor:

I like to be outdoors at dusk, when Nature goes to rest,
It seems to me that is the time her artists work the best.
I like to watch the setting sun and hear the meadow larks,
And see the rays come from the sun, as from the anvil sparks.
I like to feel the cooling breeze come stealing o'er my face,
It seems to soothe my very life in its heated, giddy pace.

I like to have the birds come sing at evening time to me,
And listen for the echo that comes back from o'er the lea
Their chirrup brings great gladness to this weary soul of mine,
Which otherwise, would want to fret, and sometimes to repine.
I like to hear the murmuring of voices through the trees,
They're borne to me so slightly on the calm and placid breeze.

When all the other voices of the dusk have gone to sleep,
And darkness comes upon the earth so thick and black and deep,
I yet can hear one voice unlike the ones before,
And to my soul, it gently speaks and knocks at my heart's door.
What is this voice which seems to sound from sky down to the sod?
Then it replies, "Be still, and know that I am God."

"Sittin' on top of the world!"

Like most of us, it is the nature of the College Man to be "two-sided".

He is either filled with the joy of college life and the way things are "breaking" for him; or he is very much out of sorts with the world.

Isolation from Home and the Home influence is the cause for the latter complex.

Regular telephonic communication with home is the remedy.

A weekly telephone chat with Mother and Dad puts you "on top of the world" . . . and keeps you there!

Telephoning Mother and Dad is now considered a "Major Sport"!

The Tower Window

TAST fall before one of the games, among other callers came an old friend, Henry A. I. Benner, '89. After a few friendly interchanges he told me in answer to an inquiry that while he was busy every Sunday preaching as aforetime when he was a regular pastor, he was now also teaching—conducting a one-teacher continuation school. There was not time to go into particulars—he had to hurry off to look up a grandson who is a freshman in the college, but as he gripped me goodbye with one hand, from the other he passed to me a brown covered volume which he bade me read at my leisure. I laid the book aside without even noting the title and followed my visitor to the field in order to be there for the kickoff. Later I saw him and the grandson, in a tense moment, side by side, tight against the rope cheering alike as the Grizzlies made their way down the field. All this merely to prepare you for what I want to say about the book.

The volume he left with me is a manual written by Mr. Benner as a guide for teachers who, like himself, are charged with the duties of giving a belated or extended education to such youth as have taken jobs in factories and are keeping on with their schooling. The title of the book is 'Head and Hand.' It is so different from any pedagogical treatise I have ever seen that it deserves special notice. The method employed is grasped at once by reversing the terms of his title—Hand and Head, for this represents the logical process. The point of departure from which instruction begins is the pupil's job. Sixteen typical industries such as the making of shirts, cigars, automobiles, lead pencils, hats and needles furnish the materials of education used in this volume. The method derived is applicable indefinitely to every kind of industrial operation. From the exercises given, any thoughtful teacher can make similar use of material from whatever forms of industry his locality may have.

From carefully conceived questions the pupil makes an analysis of his particular job, and out of this analysis proceeds the work of extending the field of knowledge and the training in formal thinking. Thus from hand to head the process goes on with each new lesson. This empirical method in education is not new, but the originality of many things in the book will be recognized at once by the experienced teacher who is sure to be impressed also with its practical value.

Now to get back to the author, I am agreeably surprised to find a man who was educated in theology and who had spent three decades in the active pastorate, enter the school room after he had reached the grandfather age and become an authority in a field of specialized education. Does not the picture of the man and the boy two generations apart standing together cheering the football team of their common Alma Mater, give us the clue?

Yes, "a man is just as old as he feels". G. L. O.

The result of our big contest is not yet ready for publication. We have received thousands of suggestions for names to be used to designate this column, so be patient, dear reader, the results will be announced presently. In the meantime, don't be alarmed if you see other names which have been used before appearing from time to time—we'll let you know when we've picked our name.

Here's a good one—listen! Co-eds at Columbia University, have rebelled against the practice of their escorts, who, when called upon to pay the soda or dinner check, suddenly discover that they are "sheckleless," and it's the "woman who pays." This is not a suggestion to Ursinus men. It's just to show that you can expect such actions at Columbia (oi! oi!)

Norristown's recent murderer (unknown) seems to be in as much danger of being brought to justice as are the playful persons who had a little party in Bomberger shortly before the Christmas holidays.

Among recent visitors on the campus were: Mary Garber, '27; Isabel Johnson, '27; Phebe Cornog, '26; Helen Ferree, '14; George Haines, '27, and Sherman Gilpin, ex-'25.

Distinguished by a favor that places it first

It is a natural pride that Camel feels for its triumphs. Not only did it lead the field shortly after its introduction. It passed steadily on with each succeeding year until today it holds a place in public favor higher than any other smoke ever reached. Camel is supreme with modern smokers.

Obviously, there is a quality here that particular smokers appreciate. It is indeed the myriad qualities of perfection that are to be found in the choicest tobaccos grown. And the art of Nature is aided by a blending that unfolds each delicate taste and fragrance.

You will more than like Camels. You will find a solace in them every smoking hour. Their mildness and mellowness are an endless pleasure.

"Have a Camel!"

BUT LOSE TO TEMPLE

The Temple points were more evenly scattered among the team.

Harry Bigley led both teams in individual scoring, tallying six field goals and three fouls for a total of fifteen points.

The Bears were exceptionally weak on foul shooting, collecting but three points out of fourteen attempts.

SCHAFF LITERARY SOCIETY

"Ladies' Nite," the Schaff feature program, held in Bomberger Hall Friday night showed the charm and ability of the fair sex. Miss Margaret Stocker, '29, pleasingly interpreted Grieg's "Sonata in E Minor." "Maud Muller," read by Miss Helen Wismer, '29, brought to our minds the much neglected American poet Whittier. Two poems, "As It Is" and "When Father Broke His Arm" by Edgar Guest were given by Miss Janice Wilt, '30. The timely editorial "Ladies Prefer Gentlemen" read by Miss Betty Layman, '28, revealed a co-ed's conception of a true gentleman. The novel song fest led by Misses Florence Shoop, '29, and Dorothy Seitz '29, brought the program to a close amid the strains of "My Blue Heaven," "Charmaine," "Among My Souvenirs," "Under the Moon," "Just a Memory" and "Good Night, Ladies."

Schaff welcomed into active membership Misses Florence Benjamin '30, Harriet Kohler '31, Miriam Fissel '31, Messrs. Frank Buckley '30 and Stanley Bauman '28.

Y. M. C. A.

After a short period of devotion led by Harvey M. Lytle, two interesting topics were presented to those who gathered for the weekly Y. M. meeting. First of these topics was entitled "Does Ursinus keep in touch with the life round about?" This brought forth many different opinions from the members, and many valuable suggestions were offered to support their opinions. Ways and means were also given as to how Ursinus may become more influential in the life round about.

The second topic, "What values are derived from seeing the other fellows' points of view in religion, politics, and every day life?" brought forth a lively and interesting discussion. This has been the first meeting this year that the Y. M. has held an open forum. The effect it produced, and the opinions expressed, brought forth much comment.

Y. W. C. A.

The Y. W. is always delighted to welcome Mrs. Omwake into their midst, and on last Wednesday evening she graciously presented the topic, "Beauty from Within." So much is being said in this age of beauty; beauty of art, beauty of form, beauty of the face. But one can never hope to be truly beautiful if he disregards the beauty of the soul; if he allows selfishness and uncharitableness to creep in and root out the Christian spirit. Even Plato, the ancient, urged that outward beauty could only be achieved from beauty of the soul.

The meeting was in charge of Miss Mary Oberlin, '29, and Miss Alberta Jacobs, '31, entertained with a charming piano selection from "The Tales of Hoffman."

proved their affirmative arguments with the points,—the direct primary is out of harmony with American ideals and defeats the will of the people, it is faulty in structure and inefficient in practice, under its regime vice and corruption flourish.

The Ursinus Women's Negative team met its first defeat of the season at Schuylkill College Tuesday, January 16. The affirmative team composed of Marion Costello, Adella Krupp and Elva Unaugst with Miss Albertson as alternate representing Schuylkill won the votes of two judges against one for the Ursinus team consisting of Gladys Burr '28, Gladys Park, '28, Rebecca Engel, '28, and Mary Oberlin, '29 as alternate.

TEMPLE FROSH DEFEAT

URSINUS J. V. THURSDAY

"To get out of the rut only to slip back" sums up the endeavors of the midget Bears to break their losing streak, when after leading 23-21 at halftime, the Frosh slipped and were nosed out in another high-powered scoring fracas, 48-42 by the Temple Frosh in a game that was played as a preliminary to the main Ursinus-Temple tiff.

Houtz and Sterner were the scoring players for "Jake" Stoneback's men. Sterner accounted for sixteen of his team's points while Houtz added eleven to the cause.

ZWINGLIAN LITERARY SOCIETY

The first meeting of Zwing in the field cage proved a very enjoyable one. After the inauguration of the new officers, a large number of new members was welcomed into active membership. These were: Reginald Helffrich, '28; James Donaldson, '30; Raye Ash, '30; Loretta Nagle, '30; Marguerite Reimert, '31; Frances Roberts, '31; Barbara Taylor, '31; Dorothy Muldrew, '31; Arletta Hetter, '31; Margaret Strevig, '31; Merle Williamson, '31; and Mildred Hahn, '31.

The program, which was miscellaneous, opened with a piano duet by the Misses Harter and Wertman, '28. Their selections, "The Evening Star" from Tannhauser, and "Nemus" by Gable, were very well rendered.

The second number, a dance by Miss Farnsler, '28, was an interpretation of "Ase's Death" by Grieg and was greatly enjoyed. A clever little sketch "Cinn'm Buns," was directed by Miss Markley '29. The actors, Charlotte Berger, '28, Marie Markley, '29, Walter Spangler, '29, and William Williams, '29, portrayed their various parts well and proved pleasing to all. Two solos by Mr. Weller, '28, "Silvia" by Oley Speaks, and "Out of the Night" by Cecil Elis proved additions to a reputation already well known in Ursinus but new to Zwing. "Zwing Review" written by Mr. Swanger, '29, and read by Miss Wertman, consisted of a timely and inspiring editorial on "Pep" and amusing jokes.
